Why Hire Translation Services?

Translation can help you communicate with your audience more effectively, and move them to action by talking to them in their mother tongue, the language of their hearts.

Why Spanish?

Do you want to reach a larger number of people? Spanish has over 460 million native speakers around the world. It is actually the second most spoken language in the world, after Chinese.

With some 43 million native speakers, Spanish is the second most spoken language in the United States.

Why me?

Nowadays, you do not need someone onsite to translate your written material. Globalization allows you to hire a professional translator who is a native speaker of the target language and who lives where this language is spoken, staying updated with the normal use of the language by using it every day.

A freelance translator can offer some advantages regarding translation agencies if you need consistency and confidentiality, and if you want direct communication with the person who is actually performing the task. Besides, a freelance translator will become more productive after getting used to the text and type of content you need to translate[1].

With over 8 years' experience as a professional translator, I am knowledgeable about what translation entails. I have performed translations in several areas, but I work mostly in healthcare/medicine and education. I always look for opportunities to keep improving, through reading, online courses and webinars, and live conferences.

[1] If you need urgent turnarounds in complex formats and/or translation into several languages, a translation agency is probably the best choice for you.
